EBB TIDE – For a child, there is no cold, and an ocean at ebb tide is to go wading in. The foggy skies of the Carmel Beach are no deterrent to youth, and with sand and water squishing between one's toes, the world is wonderful. The question is, will the sons of these twd lads be able to twiggle their toes in Carmel Bay, or will pollution have made the ocean unfit, even for wading?

Also to be shown are rare treasures from the collections of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie C. Fenton, Mr. and Mrs. Fulton Freeman, Colonel and Mrs. allen Griffin, Mr. Frank Gordon James, G. T. Marsh, Mrs. S. F. B. Morse, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Parsons, Mr. Frank Work, and Miss Ling Fu Yang.

Appropriately enough, several of the Brundage artifacts employ musical themes in their designs.

Robert Stanton president of the Symphony Association, and Mrs. Stanton, together with the Symphony Guild, will open the 3-day showing with a champagne preview, Friday, Jan. 16, at the Carmel Museum of Art, from 6 to 9:30 p.m.

Cultural Commission takes first step toward Carmel acquisitionof Museum

By GUNNAR NORBERG

The first step toward turning the Carmel Museum of Art into a regular city-operated activity was taken at Monday night's meeting of the Carmel Cultural Commission.

The motion to approve the conversion of the museum – hitherto operated by a non-profit corporation – into a regular city facility, was made by Commissioner Lois Renk and seconded by Commissioner Ashton Stanley. The vote on the action was unanimous, though it was made subject to the proviso that "fiscal requirements" could be worked out.

Those "fiscal requirements" – as well as the entire question of whether or nto the City should acquire and operate the museum – was due to come before the City Council last night at the time when the Pine Cone was going to press.

Before the Cultural Commission took its affirmative action on the museum question, it heard at length from Kent Seavey, museum director, who also responsded to Commission questions.

Founded by a group of what Seavey called "concerned citizens," and opened more than two years ago in the one-time Wells Fargo Bank building at Dolores near 7th, the Carmel Museum of Art has already received national accolades for its work in historical research in the local area, as well as presenting showings of historically important art works to the public, free of charge.

Heading the founding group, and providing important initial financial support for the fledgling museum, wehre Mr. and Mrs. Anthony White.

As Seavey also pointed out, the original group of concerned citizens could not continue indefinitely the financial backing which they had unstintingly given in the beginning.

Meanwhile efforts to secure a broader public support as well as seeking funds from foundations interested in museum establishments, has not yet reached a point where revenue and expense could balance.

Consequently, said Seavey, "it has come to teh point now where, unless some public support is found, all the work and effort will go for naught."

As the Pine Cone prepared to go to press, Seavey was about to propose to the City Council that it "budget the necessary funds . . . to maintain the operation of the Museum, on an interim basis . . . and that such funding continue until April 1970, at which time the people of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea be asked, on a ballot, whether or not the City shall continue the operation of the instituttion, on a permanent basis . . ."

While the operation of a museum does not require a ballot decision by the electorate, it could presumably become the subject of an advisory question at next April's regular municipal election.

The establishment of a museum, however, is fully within the powers of the City Council, which can take all the necessary steps to acquire and operate the museum simply by enacting

Letters to the editor

Tom Hudson of Point Lobos, former Chairman of the Monterey County Board of Supervisors and Co-Chairman with Ansel Adams in the Humble Oil fight, made the following announcement last week:

The Monterey Peninsula is facing a moment of truth. If we act now to form support for a modern Peninsula – wide sewage disposal system we can phase out – not build bigger and longer – ocean outfall lines.

The ecological stupidity of dumping sewage effluent into Monterey and Carmel Bay is well recognized by most enlightened citizens. The fiscal stupidity of dumping over half a million dollars into an unproven outfall off Carmel can be averted by a regional plan.

In the dark and gloomy days, after Humble Oil won their use permit for a refinery at Moss Landing, Ansel Adams and our committee asked the citizens of the Monterey Peninsula for their support. They gave it and the battle was ultimately won.

There is not, to my knowledge, one city councilman or sewage district commissioner who would not welcome a regional collection system with inland disposal of purified water. They can't do it without the unified support from each city and from each of the unincorporated areas.

This same committee will serve that function. The individual cities and districts need Federal financial support. Congressman Talcott, two weeks ago, assured me this will be easier to obtain on a regional basis than on a city-by-city basis. This committee will work toward that end.

With the Governor's new appointment of Chairman of the Board Willard Branson to this important committee, we are assured of our local representative's keen interest in this problem as demonstrated by his past action joined in by Supervisor Loren Smith and the Board of Supervisors in directing a study of the bay waters by our Monterey County Health Department.

I have absolutely no doubt with the interest that we have had in the past from our neighbors and fellow citizens, exemplified by our Junior Chamber of Commerce leadership – that the right ecological, financial and engineering solution can be found.

Your elected representatives can be counted on to do their job.

They need our support to do that job. This committee will provide the support. An office will be opened in the First Federal Court Adobe

ART DISCUSSION – Mrs. Robert Stanton, at left, discusses the ancient oriental art objects with Mrs. Leslie C. Fenton, at her Pebble Beach home, which is a showplace for rare oriental antiques, many of which will be on display at the Oreintal Art Show to be sponsored by the Symphony Guild, Peninsula Chapter, as a benefit for the Monterey County Symphony. The event will take place Jan. 16-18 in the Carmel Museum of Art. Oreintal art from other private collections will supplement pieces from the Brundage Collection, some of which will be sent on to "Expo 70" in Japan. The two large vases are Han Dynasty, 202 B.C.-202 A.D., and the horse and figurines are T'ang Dynasty, 618 - 907 A.D.

The Council could also finance the operation during the remainder of the present fiscal year by using portions of existing reserve funds, and it coul.d later include funds for museum purposes in the same way in which it regularly appropriates monies for other municipal purposes.

There is a provision in state law which could require the City Council to take steps to establish a city museum, but it is a little used provision. This provision states that one-third of the voters in a city can petition the City Council to set up a museum. In Carmel, such a petition would have to contain the signatures of about a thousand registered voters.

Besides taking a stand in favor of a city museum, the Cultural Commission met for the first time with the new Sunset Center manager, Mrs. Dorothy Bowman, upon whose recommendation it granted the use of Room 11 at Sunset to Richard Brace for what he called a "museum of tomorrow."

Brace, who said he is presently responsible for the effort as an individual, plans to engage broad support for his venture, and emphasized that he was essentially speaking for a "museum of tomorrow association." The hope of the Brace group will be to present "material of wide community interest to assist public and decision-making bodies in visualizing future aspects of important problems relating to conservation, ecology and environmental quality" in the local area.

Brace, who is retired, plans to devote his time and his resources to the effort. He says his group will not, in a given situation, "press for any specific solution" but will, instead attempt to present the case for each possible alternate solution.

When Cultural Commission Chairman Mrs. Patricia Faul remarked that she had already heard congratulatory comment about the newly employed Sunset Manager, Mrs. Bowman herself thanked her and said "this is the happiest time of my life."

The Cultural Commission also resolved a knotty problem for the Monterey Peninsula Chamber Music Society. When the Commission had granted the use of the stage area at Sunset auditorium to the Society for its 1969-70 concert series, it had not known that it was running afoul of state fire regulations.

It had turned out, meanwhile, that as many as the two hundred members of the Chamber Music Society could not legally be seated around the musicians on the stage. Since tomorrow night's concert was rapidly approaching, the Chamber Music Society suddenly faced a real problem, as its president, Angie Machado, said in a letter to the Commission.

The Commission decided, in the circumstances, to permit the Chamber Music Society to seat its members nad present its concerts in the forward portion of the downstairs section of the Sunset Auditorium, without an increase in rental.

Before adjourning, the Commission decided to hold a study session – probably in Room 9 at Sunset – at 7:30 in the evening, Jan. 19, to acquaint Mrs. Bowman with the Commission and its views.

Casadesus' piano Symphony feature

"He takes his place among the great vituosos" wrote the music critic of "Le Monde," Paris, after a recent performance of Jean Casadesus, the celebrated pianist who will be the guest soloist with the Monterey County Symphony at the forthcoming concerts, opening at the MPC "Concert Hall"- Gym on Sunday, January 18, at 8 p.m.

The concert will repeat Monday night, Jan. 19, at 8:30 at the Washington Junior High School in Salinas, and at Sunset Auditorium in Carmel, Tuesday night at 8:30.

Casadesus will play the Emperor Concerto No. 5, by Beethoven, Opening the concert will be the Leonore Overture III and closing will be the Symphony No. e (Eroica), to round out the all-Beethoven program, in honor of the 200th anniversary of Beethoven's birth in 1770, and to celebrate also Monterey's 200th birthday during the Bicentennial year of 1970.

For advance ticket information, call the Symphony office; 624-4125.

MPC registration

Now entering the last weeks of its fall semester, Monterey Peninsula College is anticipating the Feb. 2 opening of its spring, 1970, semester by registering evening students by mail and accepting application for admission from potential day students.

Class schedules, containing data on all courses – day and evening – are now on sale at MPC bookstore. Placement examinations are scheduled for Jan. 10 nd 17 – Saturdays – 8:30 a.m., and Monday, Jan. 26, 6:30 p.m., in Lecture-Forum 103.

Last day to file admission materials for students planning to take eight units of study or more has been announced as Jan. 21.

Even the campus has a new spring look: during the college Christmas-New Year holiday, recently planted lawns sprouted around several of the new buildings, with the result that much of the raw, unfinished look has disappeared.

Two men and LSD

Art Linkletter is a widely known entertainer. He didn't become involved in thee drug problem until a few months ago, when he made the crushing discovery that his vivacious daughter Diane had been caught up in the cruel, crippling hoax of the new "religion" — halucinatory drugs. A good family background and earnest, loving family counsel didn't help Diane. She jumped out a sixth floor window.

Timothy Leary is a widely known former professor. He became intimately involved in the drug problem quite some time ago. Only to himit is not a problem. LSD is the open sesame to a universe of joy. Perhaps "open window" would be more appropriate.

Two men . . . a bereaved, good father and a guru of the acid heads. What Leary's thoughts about Diane may be we don't know. What Art Linkletter thinks about Leary and his mind-blowing world, we do:

"I want the parents, and I want their kids, to read about this and be shocked, be frightened at what can happen.

"What you have to do is not just say using drugs is a bad thing, but have incontestable scientific proof. And when somebody like Timothy Leary comes out and justifies it, we have got to jump on him with hob-nailed boots."

Patriotism?!

Attention has been called to a movement designed to raise money for the relief of United States draft evaders who scurried out of, instead of served, their country and settled in Canada.

Why these draft dodgers need relief is explained, according to the San Francisco Examiner, by a Protestant bishop who says many of these poor boys are undergoing hardships. Runaways often do, of course, but it is difficult to believe that these young men are having it as tough as their fellow men who honored their duty and went into service — in Vietnam or wherever.

The good bishop's inter-faith organization, Clergy and Laymen Concerned About Vietnam refers to the expatriates as "men whose high sense of patriotism would not allow them to participate in the Vietnam war."

Patritism?! That's the first time we, like the Examiner, ever heard anyone in a high position of leadership seriously equate draft dodging with patriotism.

TWELFTH NIGHT— Carmel's traditional "tree burning" lights up a lowering January evening sky as more than 50 Christmas trees were burned to commemorate "Twelfth Night." The annual event took place on Jan. 5, and the cheerful fire provided light and warmth for those who gathered at the foot of 13th street for the colorful tradition.

'Holiday In Holland' at Sunset

Well known travel-adventure film producer Willis Butler will appear in person at 8:15 p.m. Friday, Jan. 16, at the Sunset Auditorium to narrate his new two hour color travel-adventure film, "Holiday in Holland" as part of the Explorama series.

Willis Butler attended the School of Speech at Northwestern University where he received his bachelor of science and master of arts degrees. He was on the staff at the university for some five years.

He began producing travel-adventure films in 1953 and since that time photographic missions have taken him to Europe, Africa, the Middle East, and the Orient.

He spent six months on location in Holland during the production of the film he will narrate in Carmel. The film is a combination of human interest studies of the Dutch people and a scenic tour of Holland.

Highlights include a boat trip on the canals of Amsterdam, Rotterdam, Delft, the Hague, and Friesland.

Reserved seat tickets are on sale at the Abinante Music Store 425 Alvarado, Monterey. They will also be on sale after 7:15 p.m. Friday at the Sunset Auditorium.

The showing is sponsored by the Explorers Club of San Francisco with a portion of the proceeds used to provide annual scholarships to young California students.

David Bradshaw believes in working where the heart is

by Charles Strosnider

Work where you'd like to retire!

Too many of us tie ourselves to jobs we little enjoy in areas we detest to earn the means to retire in our advanced years to the spot we dreamed about during our young, middle – and truly productive – years.

Carmel is appealing to the retired, but it also can use the productive energy and enthusiasm of those not of retirement age.

Carmel was not founded or known by the efforts of the retired artist, writer, actor or land developer – but by the youthful, alive, bouyant George Sterlings, Jack Londons, Mary Austins, Robinson Jeffers.

David Bradshaw terminated his career elsewhere and retraced his steps to the Monterey Peninsula to work where he and his wife, Barbara had decided they would like to retire.

They, and their two sons, Robbie, age six, and Ricky five, now live in Carmel, where David bought Kent of Carmel.

After graduating from University of Oregon, David was a media executive in the advertising business in New York City, then to Florida in TV advertising.

He became interested in men's clothing partially through handling advertising with Macy's in New York and the May Co. department stores in Florida.

What is more natural, then to purchase one of the leading men's clothing stores of the area, Kent of Carmel, on his arrival early last summer?

After an early lifetime of business suits, David Bradshaw thoroughly enjoys the "professional casual" look of Carmel.

He says that men's fashions ahve been going through a revolution in style which ranges in taste from the Edwardian to the quite formal.

Kent of Carmel will remain receptive to fashion trends and will carry styles from the conservative city suit to the new fashion lines, which should appeal to the cosmopolitan tastes of the perigrinating Carmelite.

Sounder sleep for ex-smokers

Heavy smokers sleep poorly. Ex-heavy smokers sleep better.

This is revealed by research at U.C.L.A.'s sleep research facility by Drs. Anthony and Joyce Kales and T. L. Tan.

By studying the brain waves of eight chronic smokers, the researchers discovered that they rarely achieved deep sleep and they dreamed abnormally.

After giving up cigarettes, the onetime smokers fell asleep more quickly, slept better and stayed asleep longer. For the first few nights, some complained of nightmares, but these faded away within a short time. Achieving normal levels of deep sleep took longer.

Tomlinson's Tidbits

By George L. Tomlinson

WITH ALL the news today of war, unrest, crime and commotion, don't you really sort of look forward to the headache commercial? . . . It's going to be tough sledding around here in '70. Why? No snow.

Our Schools

THE MANY SIDES OF SANTA — These imaginative renditions of Old Saint Nick were drawn by the forth grade students of Miss Naomi Roddert of River School. The children used a technique called serigraph to record their conceptions of Santa Claus as a Christmas art project. Each child drew Santa and a photographic stencil was made of his work. The figures were then reproduced on a silkscreen. To add color to the display, a background was run onto the silkscreen before the figures were incorporated into the design. When the project was completed, each child received three copies of the finished product to give as Christmas presents or mount for display.

Audubon films made available

Vern Yadon, Audubon Society member and museum curator, has made arrangements for school children on the Peninsula to view Audubon wildlife films.

Children at Pacific Grove Junior High School, Middle School and the Monte Vista School in Monterey now have access to the films. It is also planned to have showings in Seaside as soon as a place is made available for their presentation.

Back to school

Some 1,271 new graduates and undergraduates are currently beginning their second quarter of studies on the University of California, Santa Cruz campus.

Among those from Carmel are Laura Ann Carrick, Douglass J. Forbes, Ann J. Foster, Colin Troy Giles, Marjorie May Helm, Timothy G. McCarthy and Anthony Jon Tersol.

He introduced Elizabeth Belknap to Mike Ewell, a member of the club, who coached her until she was good enough to win the women's title in the club's recent tournament.

Mike won the men's title in the same tournament and a few days later the couple were married.

Carmel couples spend holiday at Lake Tahoe

Mr. and Mrs. James Neill and their daughter Mary Beth Cya traveled to Lake Tahoe for a large family reunion over the Christmas holidays. The family were joined by their third daughter Ann, a Berkeley student.

Other visitors to the snow country were Mr. and Mrs. G. Warren Knapp, and Mrs. Jack J. Miller with her children Tina and Raymie Miller. The group joined Mrs. Burford Carlson of Monterey on the ski slopes to celebrate Mrs. Carlson's eighteenth wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Joan Dresser Stein of Carmel and her children Martha and Jack III spent a white Christmas at their Lake Tahoe home. They were joined by Mrs. Stein's mother, Mrs. Arthur Dresser of Hacienda Carmel and Mrs. Courtney J. Hanson and her family of the Monterey Peninsula Country Club.

Roses for men

As more and more men smell lovely, some develop rashes in the beard area.

A dermatologist, Dr. Ernst Epstein of the San Mateo Medical Clinic, says the two facts are definitely linked. Whatever the label – whether preshave lotion, after-shave lotion, all-purpose lotion or cologne – they all continae perfumes which bring out the rash in some allergic men, particularly after shaving has irritated their sensitive skin.

Maxicoats can be dangerous

Can the maxicoat be dangerous?

Yes, insists Mrs. Marjorie May of the Greater New York Safety Council, who also finds them graceless and unsanitary.

Danger lurks inside and out for maxicoat wearers, according to Mrs. May, who cited the following possibilities: catching the hem in an escalator, stepping on the bottom and tripping while going up curbs and stairs, catching high heels in the hem, having the person behind step on the dragging skirt.

"The current popularity of the maxi-length garments is a fad, not a real fashion," insists the safety expert. "We believe women should be made aware of the accident potential of such clothing, but we certainly are not trying to act as fashion dictators."

Kingman exhibit at MPMA continues thru Jan. 11

The Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art will extend the Dong Kingman one-man show currently on exhibit in the Museum's Main Gallery.

Because of over-whelming public response, the show, scheduled to close on Dec. 28, will continue through Jan. 11.

This exhibition, retrospective in scope and covering Kingman's work over a period of 30 years, is the first to be displayed in the Museum's new building (the former County Court House) located at 559 Pacific Street in Monterey.

Gallery hours are from 10-5 Tuesday through Friday and 2-5 on Saturday and Sunday.

The 7th Annual Invitational Photographic Show, originally schedulaed for December in the Balcony Gallery of the Museum, had to be postponed because of remodeling problems.

Any area artist who has not received an entry blank for this show may obtain one from the Museum or any Peninsula art supply store.

Camera Club to meet tonight

The Padre Trails Camera Club will meet at Carmel High School's Brey Hall, on Thursday, Jan. 8, at 8 p.m.

Members will present slides for both pictorial and nature P.S.A. contest. The judging will be followed by a special program of color slides prepared by the Photochrome Club of San Francisco. The showing is titled "Line, Format and Design," and will be helpful and informative for anyone interested in making good pictures.

Galyn Hammond, Monterey, is program chairman in charge.

Visitors are welcome.

Couteau film at MPC Jan. 10

Jacques Yves-Couteau's film "World Without Sun," a feature-length sequel to the award-winning "Silent World," will be shown Saturday, Jan. 10 at 8 and 9:45 p.m. in the Monterey Peninsula College music hall.

Tickets, sold out for the first showing, will be available at the door for the 9:45 screening, priced at $1.

Last in MPC's monthly series of outstanding "Window on the World" documentaries for the fall season, "World Without Sun" fulfills Cousteau's basic proposition: that the seas do not constitute such a hostile environment that man cannot some day be as at home in them as on land.

The spring "Window on the World" series begins Feb. 20, to feature monthly showings at 9:45 p.m. through May.

"Dutch Treats"

PARTY PLANS . . .

by Phyllis Jervey

After so many elaborate parties which have put a strain on the budget, a simple "Dutch Treat" supper will simplify entertaining. And appropriate is the idea since on Friday, Jan. 16 "Holiday in Holland" will be shown at Carmel's Sunset Center at 8:15.

This colorful Explorerama feature will present various facets of the Netherlands, the gorgeous tulips, cheese industry, windmills and dikes.

So let's plan to get together and share a small buffet with friends who already have season tickets or invite newcomers.

If the supper is before the cinema, we'll give you several Dutch dishes which take more time to prepare.

Should you prefer to gather after the film, then a good sturdy soup and cold platters will suffice with hot chocolate.

Today Dutch cookery is a mixture of German, Belgian and Colonial influence. From Java superior chocolate and cocoa plus coffee and tea are imported. Seafood is outstanding, veal a specialty, thick strong soups and the rich, creamy Edam and Gouda cheese are tops.

The influence from Java with its spicy dishes stems from the early days when the Dutch colonized the Netherlands East Indies. Curry is much favored along with Indonesian exports, ginger, coconuts, pineapples, rice.

There are also excellent Dutch and Indonesian dishes to be found in the Dutch West Indies. Served in 17th century taverns in Curacao and Willemstad, everything is so clean, even the sea breeze smells well scrubbed.

We suggest that the Explorerama party be shared financially and the preparation divided. But use your ingenuity as far as where and when you will gather. We are furnishing the following delicious Dutch-inspired recipes. The rest is up to you.

Dutch Potato Soup

Eight cups potatoes, peeled and diced; 4 cups water; 1 T., plus 1 t., salt; 1 cup chopped onion; 6 strips bacon; ½ t. Accent; dash of Java cracked pepper; 1 T. tarragon vinegar.

Put 4 cups potatoes in heavy kettle with 4 cups water. Add salt, pepper and Accent. Cook until potatoes, with cover on, turn soft. Prepare crisply sauteed and drained bacon, crumbled. Saute onion in bacon drippings. Remove potatoes from water, put through food mill or ricer and return to water with onion, bacon and vinegar. Add 4 more cups potatoes and cook until tender. Cool. At serving, reheat slowly, adding milk for desired consistency. Makes 2 qts. soup base. Scatter chopped chives on top.

Blinde Vinken
(Veal Birds)

Six slices veal or lean beefsteak; ½ lb. lean pork; 6 sour gherkins; 1/2 cup butter; add salt to some flour. Serves 6.

Wipe meat and pork with damp cloth. Salt and pepper them lightly. Cut pork in 6 strips. Lay 1 piece of pork on each slice of veal or steak and place gherkin in center of each and roll up. Meat should not be over ½ inch thick. Tie rolls or hold with toothpicks. Brown in butter. Add 1 cup water, cover and simmer one hour. Add more water with some A-1 sauce or Worcestershire for color and flavor. Thicken to make gravy and serve hot with steamed rice, cabbage and carrots.

Citroen Vla
(Lemon Chiffon Cream)

Four eggs, separated; ½ cup white wine; juice 2 lemons; ½ cup confectioners sugar. Serves 4.

Beat egg yolks and sugar in top of double boiler off fire until thick, light and fluffy. Slowly add white wine and lemon juice until well mixed. Place double boiler on fire and stir vigorously until mixture stiffens. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites, stirring in gently over low fire until mixture has cooked and can no longer separate. Cool thoroughly and serve with wafers or lady fingers. It is best to double this recipe for six.

We suggest serving the three above dishes for a pre-cinema supper. And here we have a few suggestions for a buffet after the show.

Cucumber Soup

One fourth lb. butter; 1 onion, chopped; 4 cucumbers, peeled and cubed; 3T. flour; 6 cups chicken broth; Java cracked pepper; 2 egg yolks; sherry to taste; 1 cup sour cream; chopped mint.

Add onion and cucumber to melted butter in saucepan. Cook over low heat 10 min, stirring often. Do not allow to brown. Sprinkle flour over these and mix lightly with fork. Slowly add stock, stirring until boiling point is reached. Add pepper and simmer gently 10 min., still stirring. Force mixture through a sieve.

Beat egg yolks, sherry and sour cream in bowl. Slowly add soup, sitrring to prevent curdling. This may be served chilled or hot. When reheating do not permit to boil. Correct seasoning, sprinkle with mint and serve.

Bacon and Egg Pie

Two cups flour; ½ t. salt; ½ cup fat; water; ½ lb. bacon; 4 eggs; 1/3 cup milk; salt and pepper.

Preheat oven to 450 F. Prepare plain pastry from the flour, salt, shortening and water. Line an 8-inch pie plate with a portion of the pastry. Fry bacon until partly cooked. Cool. Spread over the bottom crust. Slightly beat the eggs; stir in the milk, salt and pepper.

Pour egg mixture over bacon. Cover with top crust pastry; turn edge under bottom crust to make tight seal. Scallop edge or press with fork. Bake in 450 F. oven for 15 min. or until edges begin to brown. Then turn to 350 F. for 45 min. or until egg mixture is firm and crust an even golden brown. Serve hot or cold. Serves 4, so make 2 pies just in case.

Kerry Kool Sla
(Hot Curried Slaw)

Two cups beef stock or 1 can consomme with ½ can water; 1 bay leaf; 1 clove garlic; 4 cups shredded green cabbage; 2 whole cloves; 1 onion; 3 t. salt; 1 t. cracked Java pepper; 4 T. butter; 3 T. flour; 1½ cups cream; 1 T. curry powder; ¼ cup ground nuts or bread crumbs.

Combine stock, bay leaf, garlic and shredded cabbage in saucepan. Place cloves in peeled onion. Add to cabbage with 2 t. salt and the pepper. Cook over medium heat for 10 min.

Stir, drain and discard bay leaf, garlic and onion. Butter a baking dish and fill with the cabbage. Melt butter in saucepan; add flour, stir until smooth. Gradually add cream, stir until boiling point is reached. Place ½ cup of this sauce in a cup and add curry powder. Mix until smooth. Return to saucepan, stir well. Add remaining salt. Cook over low heat 5 min.

Pour sauce over cabbage in baking dish. Sprinkle with ground nuts or bread crumbs. Bake in 425 F. oven for 15 min. before serving. Serves 6.

Movie Review

Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid – Paul Newman and Robert Redford are western outlaws whose day has passed. A comedy of anticlimaxes with superb photography, a folk-tale touch and a violent conclusion.

Easy Rider – Latest motorcycle epic stars Peter Fonda and Dennis Hopper as hip-types in search of America. Aspects involving drugs and sex and long emphasis on traveling sequences make much of the ballyhoo that has greeted this film. Playing at Marina Auto.

Lady in Cement – A continuation of the underworld adventures of Tony Rome, Miami private eye. Frank Sinatra is Rome, who goes in search of the murderer of a girl found in Biscayne Bay. At the Village.

Camille 2000 – Radley Metzger's updating of a tale by Dumas the Younger emphasizes graphic sex acts. "The Lady of the Camellias" has been the favorite part of actresses for ages. At the Hill.

Bob and Carol and Ted and Alice – An irreverent social satire, slick in its trimmings and backgrounds with a sharp bite in its characters, dialogue and frank appraisal of modern marriage and mores. Golden Bough.

On Her Majesty's Secret Service – The new James Bond, George Lazenby, skiis and bobslees after the villainous chief of Spectre and takes his first plunge into matrimony with T.V.'s former Avenger, Diana Rigg. At the State.,

I Love You, Alice B. Toklas – Peter Sellers, Leigh Taylor-Young, Lou Gottlieb and Jo Van Fleet star in this spoof of the establishment and hippies as well. Neither wins. Great comedy at the Marina Automovie.

101 Dalmations – The sinister Cruella Daville plots to capture the 101 Dalmations in Walt Disney's delightful animated re-issue playing at Valley Cinema.

Support Your Local Sheriff – A western comedy about a reluctant sheriff who feels he must take the job to protect the town. It was a dull town until he takes over. The money-making sleepr of 1969. At the Grove.

Slaves – A controversial drama about slavery in this country in the 1800's, starring Stephen Boyd as the plantation owner and Dionnne Warwick as his slave-mistress. At the Village.

John and Mary – Dustin Hoffman and Mia Farrow co-star in an off-beat romance, and they do a creditable job to make a good, "X" rated film. At the Cinema 70.

Stage Review

"Light Up The Sky"

The Circle Theater offers an hilarious look at the inside of show business in its latest comedy hit, "Light Up The Sky" playing Friday and Saturday nights at 8:30 and an hour earlier on Sundays.

The performance is directed by Zelma Weinfield and features Ed Shinbrot as a financier concerned about the "three-thousand bucks" he has sunk into an apparent "turkey."

"Cactus Flower"

"Cactus Flower," Abe Burrows' classic comedy masterpiece is now playing at the Studio Theater-Restaurant. The play is skillfully acted and cleverly directed and offers the broadest kind of farce in 15 scenes. Directed by Bob Evans, "Cactus Flower" plays weekends with an 8:30 curtain Friday and Saturday and a 7:30 curtain on Sunday.

The public is invited, there is no admission charge.

The Hon. Bajpai's address had originally been scheduled for December but was postponed to Jan. 8 because the speaker was asked by his country to join its UN delegation last month.

Consul General Bajpai is highly qualified to discuss the important foreign policy issues facing India's leadership – a leadership which in recent years has become seriously fragmented. The Counsul General is expected to touch on India's relations with Pakistan, Red China, Soviet Russia and the United States.

Bernard Eismann to close MPC's fall lecture series

"The Second American Revolution," a lecture by veteran news correspondent Bernard Eismann, will close Monterey Peninsula College's fall evening lecture series Friday, Jan. 9.

Eismann, who has "covered the world" for ABC and CBS on television and radio, will speak at 8 p.m. in the National Guard Armory on the MPC campus. Admission to his lecture is free, but tickets must be picked up at the college's community services office or secure by mail in advance.

A dynamic platform personality, Eismann now broadcasts on National Educational Television, where his "in-depth" approach to the issues and problems of our times is displayed to great advantage. He has been moderator and regular commentator of the much-praised series "Inquiry" and "Newsfront," an Eastern Educational Television nightly feature. Mrs. Barbara Haber of Carmel Valley, president, will wind up the current Auxiliary year, which was marked by some significant contributions to community health care, and pass on the responsibilities of the office to president-elect, Mrs. Jack Westland of Pebble Beach.

Hospital trustees, including president of the board, Dr. A Carol McKenney, are expected to attend as honored guests, along with Hospital Administrator Thomas E. Tonkin, who as president of the California Hopsital Association, this year, lends a further distinction to the guest list.

Guest speaker scheduled for the event, Samuel C. Virts of the Reserach and Development office of Lockheed Hospital Information Services, Sunnyvale, will speak on "Commitment – The Message and the Medium." His experience with hospital auxiliaries includes varying degress of responsibility for administrative liaison.

According to the program chairman, Mrs. Joseph Earnshaw, guests of Auxilians are welcome, but prepaid reservations should be received by the Auxiliary office, Jan. 8.

The Eikon Gallery two is featuring an exhibit by John and Regina Hicks of Carmel through Feb. 12.

The Hicks' show, "Mexico Speaks Softly," utilizes more than 80 photograhs in capturing the fantastic diversity that is Mexico.

John and Regina have utilized the medium of photography to forge a person-to-person dialogue between the viewer and Mexico. They believe photography is a turned-on language that speaks to everybody.

John Hicks has written for both radio and television, directed motion pictures, been a newscaster and directed a large advertising agency. His recent novel, The Long Whip, is doing well and he has another novel on the way.

Additionally, John and Regina have collaborated on producing the illustrations for a recent sociological text book, done special assignments for magazines and newspapers, including Newsweek, Life and the Saturday Review.

They have had their photographs exhibited at the Monterey County Fair, the Tantamount Theater, Rings Cafe, Monterey Peninsula College and the Monterey Community Center.

The Eikon Gallery hours are 1-5 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday.

First Federal moves into new Rancho Center home

First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Monterey County has moved its quarters to a new location in the Carmel Rancho Shopping Center.

President Charles Lunt, Jr. announced that the new quarters are much more spacious and will enable the association to offer more customer services.

Lunt stated that the newest of the extra services is a free safety deposit box program. Safety deposit boxes will be available to savings customers with a balance of $2,500 or more.

First Federal Savings already offers fee free travelers checks, free note and deed of trust collections, and other customer services.

First Federal Savings started with a charter May 5, 1966 and has grown to over three million six hundred thousand dollars in assets.

The officers and directors decided last year that the move to larger quarters would enable First Federal to better serve its customers.

General J. H. Phillips, USA, Ret.) is chairman of the board; Charles Lunt, Jr. is president; Ira Nagel is vice-president; and William R. Moore serves as secretary.

Robert Cater, D. D. S., is treasurer; and Louis S. Moore is assistant secretary of the association; Thomas Elston and Adolph Edel are directors.

The officers and directors announced recently that they would offer the new 5¼% 6 month Bonus Savings Account. They were pleased to hear of the new $20,000 Insurance of Accounts which will enable customers to add to their savings accounts and still be fully insured.

Childbirth Education League meets

The Childbirth Education League will hold a public meeting on Tuesday, Jan. 13 at 8 p.m. at the Casa Estrada, the Community Room of the Monterey Savings and Loan.

A film, "To Plan Your Family," will be shown and following the film Dr. Robert Fries, assistant director of Public Health for Monterey County will discuss family planning with emphasis on contraception.

The Childbirth Education League also sponsors pre-natal classes which meet once weekly for eight weeks.

The classes prepare couples for their childbirth experience and cover subjects such as prenatal exercises; diet during pregnancy; labor; delivery; breast feeding; and the important role the father plays.

For information about the classes call Mrs. Russell Bomberger at 624-7365.

Sporting Holiday

The best advice for anyone seeking an active sporting holiday is – come to Southern England. Concentrated in this sunny corner of Britain you will find outstanding facilities for the enoyment of almost every kind of sport. Just about anything , in fact, from archery to ice-skating. Along the coast you can swim, go sailing, fishing, skin-diving, or water skiing. Inland there are famous championship golf courses, classic salmon and trout rivers and beautiful stretches of countryside to be explored on horseback. Cricket is played in summer on village greens and county grounds, and most towns provide good facilities for tennis and bowls. Bournemouth, Eastbourne and Folkestone are the resorts to choose if you enjoy tennis. And if you prefer watching sport to taking part there are scores of important events taking place throughout the year, including motor-racing at Brand's Hatch and horse-racing at a half-a-dozen well known courses, notably Brighton and Folkestone.

All around the coast from Whitstable to Christchurch there are good harbors and havens for yachtsmen, with summer regattas at nearly every resort. Chichester Harbour is a favourite sailing haunt and all the world knows Cowes, the famous Isle of Wight sailing centre on the shores of the Solent. Here during Cowes Week, you can see the world's finest yachts and yachtsmen in action. And the English Channel teems with fish of all kinds; skate, tope, dogfish, plaice, sole, turbot, cod, bass, mullet and mackerel. You can catch them from the shore, from piers and breakwaters, or from boats which can be hired for deep-sea fishing trips. Plenty of sport for freshwater fishermen too! The clear, fast-flowing chalk streams of Wiltshire and Hampshire are full of great trout and salmon. Just mention the River Test of the Itchen to a keen angler and watch his face light up with enthusiasm. If golf is your game you will find dozens of superb courses in Southern England, including great championship courses such as those at Sandwich, in Kent. Other well-known courses are to be found at Salisbury, Warminster, Rye, Worthing, Deal, Ashdown Forest, Fleet, Sandown and Shanklin. Golf clubs can be hired at most courses. Horse-riding is a popular pastime, especially in the rolling chalkhill country of Sussex and Wiltshire, and there are plenty of riding stables where you can hire a horse for an hour or two– or a h whole day if you wish. Best of all for a riding holiday is Hampshire's New Forest, with Lyndhurst as one of the leading centres for exploring its 100 square miles of open heaths and ancient woodlands.

Consumer Power

By Yvonne Earnst

It is time for New Year's resolutions, isn't it?

But I'm more in favor of All Year's resolutions myself. Those called "New Year's" are so easy to forget by the first of February. Perhaps if we make All Year's resolutions, we will still think of them in April of August or October.

Perhaps.

My All Year's resolution is a paraphrase of a thought expressed by Edward Everett Hale. It sums up the philosophy of this column, but extends further than just to the marketplace. It stretches "Consumer Power" to "People Power."

My resolution is this:

"I am only one, but I am one –

I cannot do everything, but I can do something –

And, even though I cannot do everything,

What I can do, I will do."

For me, this resolution substitutes a positive approach for the negativism I hear all around me – the negativism reflected in remarks like these.

"This galloping inflation just cannot go on like this, but I can't do anything to stop it." (Could you have driven your automobile one more year before trading it in on a new model? Do you really need all the things you buy and consume?)

"I've never seen so much junky merchandise in stores." (But, did you but it anyway?"

"No one seems to practice common courtesy any more." (When was the last time you went out of your way to thank someone adequately for a service performed rather than taking it for granted?)

"It's a shame that so many Americans go to bed hungry at night, but what can I do about it?" (When did you last write a letter to a Congressman?)

"Honest men just can't survive in politics." (When did you last contribute money to or do volunteer work for your political party?)

It is sad that so many people feel powerless to change things. They are usually the same people who are good at placing the blame on "them" when things go wrong. Somehow, these people seem to feel that if they don't get involved – if they don't assume any of the responsibility – they cannot be blamed when the system fails.

I feel quite differently about it, though. I feel the blame belongs squarely on the very people who refuse to become involved, who ignore responsibility, and, therefore, let the selfish and greedy rule of their default.

Sometimes I think we are playing a giant game of "Pin the Blame on the Goat – Any Goat." We read the newspaper, taking note of everything that's wrong – inflation, violence, greed, pollution, ect. – and, then, we point our fingers in all directions and, finally, jab hard in one large area, such as government, industry, labor or the enigmatic "them."

For instance, we are furious about the polluted bay, the smog inching toward us, the DDT killing the sea life. We stick the blame on big industry (who deserve only part of the blame), and then we have blame left over for government from local to national for not doing something to stop it.

We do not, however, pin any blame on ourselves – we who burn our trash outdoors, who drive our gas-burning automobiles every day, who dump gallons of detergents down our plumbing systems, and who have never brought the slightest pressure to bear on any government official to show them who we feel about the problems.

Then, there's inflation. We complain because industry puts profit above patriotism. We blame labor for demanding fantastic hourly wages, pushing up production costs and prices. We blame the government for squandering money.

But, we fail to pin any of the blame on ourselves.

We pay any exorbitant price for goods rather than deprive ourselves of yet another luxury. We teach our children by our examples that luxuries are necessities.

We condone built-in obsolescence by constantly trading up on everything from fashions to automobiles. We expect more and more government services.

We are not blamesless.

Most people, too, would like to see peace and order in the world. But few people seem to see the connection between having peace and order in the world and showing reasonable consideration for thsoe about them.

Yet, there is a poignant need for thoughtfulness and consideration in our relations with those we meet in the family circle, in the office or shop, on the streets and highways, in the stores and supermarkets, and on trains, planes and buses.

Every individual, by his attitude toward others, chooses to make the world a more chilled, bitter and brutal place to live – or chooses to make it a place of warmth, kindness and love.

So, have a little faith in yourself. No matter what your background, education, training or experience, you do have power.

There is a magic performed, too, when we start asserting either "consumer power" or "people power." We no longer feel helpless. We express our desires and complaints, and, so, shed our frustrations. We sense our power, and gain confidence from it. Our stock in ourselves goes up.

And, win, lose or draw, we have the irreplaceable satisfaction of having been part of the team.

Happy New Year!

Oliver's Observations

By Carl D. Oliver

A YOUNG secretary I know really looked great when she returned to her office after a weekend at the beach. "How did you get that wonderful all-over tan?" I asked. Her reply: "I did everything under the sun."

Whatever may be under the sun in the line of building materials may be found at H & H Supply, 1449 Canyon Del Ray (corner Del Monte) in Seaside. Here you'll find everything from panels to indoor-outdoor carpet. You name it. They've got it and you can get it anytime between 8 and noon or 1 to 5 weekdays or 8 to 2 on Saturdays. This is the Peninsula's complete home building center, "where you're a stranger only once." Srpuce up in the 70s, at H & H, which means Health & Happiness.

To avoid a nasty skid, advises the National Automobile Club, drive at as even a pace as possible.

'Women can too be trusted with credit cards' says manager of BankAmericard

The long-standing myth that housewives can't be trusted with credit cards just isn't true, according to an informal survey taken by the head of one of the nation's biggest bank card systems.

"A lot of men refuse to have credit cards," said John A. Dillon, vice president in charge of BankAmericard's California operations, "because they claim – in private, at least – that they don't want their wives to get their hands on them. Maybe it's just a matter of male ego satisfaction, but the contention just doesn't seem to hold up under scrutiny."

Housewives studied in a spot check of California cardholders seem to be cautious credit buyers. Furthermore, they normally refer the big, important credit card purchases to their husbands.

"We rarely encounter a married woman who runs up an unwiedly account on her card," Dillon says. "More likely, she will use it primarily for the relatively low cost family necessities such as clothing for the children and an occasional pair of shoes."

"The big items which run up the bill," he continued, "are normally signed for by the husband. Rarely do you see a new refrigerator or stove or other high cost appliance being bought on the woman's signature. Usually, it's a joint decision. The husband comes along to the store, and he's the one who reaches into his pocket for the credit card and signs the sale draft."

In addition to higher cost items such as appliances, Dillon siad, men are the ones who normally sign for expenses such as entertainment, travel, and vacations.

Women, are more likely, Dillon siad, to use the card as a convenience item to enable them to purchase necessities prior to the time the next paycheck comes in. When the card is used as a major credit tool, he said, it's normally a joint decision by both man and wife.

Of all BankAmericard holders in California, said Dillon, at least half are women.

Lamp conversion adds 300 percent to illumination

Pacific Gas and Electric Company has brightened 95 per cent of the lighted streets and roadways in its Northern and Central California territory in cooperation with cities, counties and street lighting districts by converting more than 124,000 incandescent street lamps to brighter and more efficient mercury vapor luminaires.

The program has added more than a billion lumens to street lighting. This, the company pointed out, is a gain of about 300 per cent in lightting intensity of lights owned by PG&E.

The lumen is a measurement of illumination. A billion lumens is about equal to the light emitted from 1,000 searchlights with a million candlepower rating each.

Crocker plans 60-story S.F. home office

Crocker Citizens National Bank kicked off the start of its centennial year a few eeks in advance today by announcing plans to build a slender, soaring tower on Montgomery Street.

"We plan to start construction within five years," said Emmett G. Solomon, board chairman of the statewide and international bank.

The tower will rise 60 to 70 floors in the senter of the Montgomery street block bounded by Post and Sutter streets and running back to Lick Place.

Construction of the tower becomes possible with the purchase of the 111 Sutter Building by the bank from Foremost-McKesson, Inc. for approximately $7,500,000.

Ensign named

Dennis H. Ensign, 32, is the new Fire Prevention Officer for Los Padres National Forest. Forest Supervisor William H. Hansen said that Mr. Ensign was selected from among 12 candidates for the job from all over California. He succeeds William A. Derr, who was recently promoted to Special Investigator and transferred to Arcadia.

Ensign, who is a native of Santa Barbara, is the son of G.H. Ensign who was Chief of the Montecito Fire Department for 35 years.

Ensign's new job is to prevent forst fires, make news concerning the forest available to the public, act as conservation education specialist, and coordinate the forest's law enforcement and fire investigation program.

Economy may expand in 70, but slowly

California's economy will continue to expand in 1970, but anti-inflationary policies imposed by the Federal Government are expected to slow the rapid growth rate of the past two years, says Wells Fargo Bank economists.

"The State's economy will enter the 'seventies on a moderately strong, but hesitant note," Harold L. Buma, vice president and manager, Economics Department, said. "What's keeping the economy moving at present – despite attempts to cool it – are the vast structural changes of the past decade. Not only is California bigger, more complex and more varied, but its structure continues to shift towards the service-oriented activities.

The clearest indication of the state's growing economy, Buma said, will be seen in the increase in new job opportunities. Total employment will average about 8.2 million workers in 1970.

One-time trainee will be new president of Bank of America

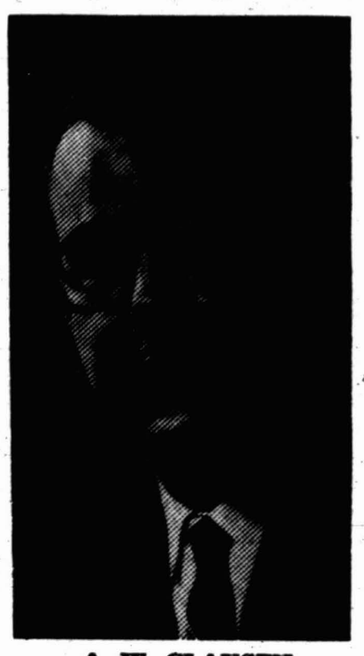
A one-time trainee hired by the Bank of America under a fledgling taining program for college graduates has been elected president and chief executive officer of the bank.

20 years after joining the bank, A. W. Clausen has assumed leadership of the world's largest commercial banking institution.

The 46-year-old Clausen was named by the bank's board of directors to succeed President Rudolph A. Peterson who retired on Jan. 1 at 65, the organization's mandatory retirement age. Peterson was elected by the board to become chairman of its executive committee upon his retirement.

Clausen, formerly vice chairman of the board, also becomes president and chief executive officer of BankAmerica Corporation, the bank's one-bank holding company.

Concurrent with Mr. Clausen's appointment, the board appointmed Samuel B. Stewart as vice chairman of the board of directors of both the bank and the holding company. Stewart,



A. W. CLAUSEN

61, had been executive vice president and senior administrative officer of the bank. He will continue in his role as senior administrative officer for both the bank and the holding company.

We're spending $385 million to turn you on this year.

During 1970, PG&E will spend $385 million to stay ahead of your growing energy needs. Not only will there be more people to serve this year, but everyone is using more and more gas and electricity.

Putting this kind of money into the California economy creates new jobs and businesses. It also means new PG&E facilities will pay additional taxes which help support local schools and government.

We're expanding and improving our facilities, so that when you turn on electricity or gas, it will be ready to serve you. PG&E

Poetry Corner

We received these two outstanding poems in the Pine Cone office too late for inclusion in our Christmas issue.

However, both are of such excellence that they must be published. We are including them this week so that everyone may enjoy Stacy Larsen's literary effort.

WHAT NOW?

What now, Christmas?
I asked.
Is it going to snow
or rain?
When Christmas comes it fills me with dread of shopping and hopping to save my poor toes.
BANG BUMP OUCH!
OH MY POOR TOES!
DRAT AND A TRIPLE DRAT!
And that's about all,
but I'm happy and glad for Christ's birthday.

CHRISTMAS

Here it comes there it goes hello goodbye and how are you?
Lights and trees and fake beards
flapping in the wind, silly HO's and HA's everywhere.
Lights and music.
Bumps and bangs.
Sorrys and laughs.
In cleaning the house
noise and dust that would make any mouse run away.
Ribbons and wrappings and boxes and things.
Carols and mistletoe.
But Christmas is all right.

A Carmel Garden

I awoke at dawn in the garden,
In a garden of old Carmel,
When the soft caress of a woman's song
Rang clear as a mission bell.

It cheered as a benediction,
As the song of a meadowlark.
With a wizardry of tenderness,
It soothed away the dark.

Oh sweet singer of hope in the sunrise,
I yield to the loving spell
Of your song at dawn in the garden,
Of my garden in old Carmel.

by Leroy Alliger

Desert Flower

Cactus in the brown pot
Ugly and beautiful . . .
What are you doing at tea
In a fashionable living-room?

Desert-born . .
With the torrid sun about you
Child of the burning sands
And the loneliness . .
How have you thus wandered?

Speak! sharp-sworded creature!
Utter your word of defiance . !
Shatter these walls with a tone
Out of the red dust and the distance,
The superb silence!

Michael Branden

STARLIT

I saw a tree
against the twilight dark,
Alone it stood
and leafless, winter stark
And yet its cloistered branches, brown and bent
Embraced the patterned stars in their ascent
And traced their trails across the heavens sent;
What tree has need of more embellishment?

Librarian's Notebook

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg, City Librarian

Happy New Year from the Library Staff to all of you!

We may now announce a new service, which is 8mm films. This service is part of our benefits from the federal funds which are financing the cooperative library system. As yet we do not have a projector, but we hope to have oe in the foreseeable future.

The films will circulate for three days and the fine for tardy returns is ten cents per day.

As to subject matter, we have a little of everything. Some travel, some Disney's for the children or for your old aunt who just wants to enjoy without thinking, and many of the early classics of film industry.

We have laurel and hardy, Charlie Chaplin, W.C. Fields, and many other of the early actors memorable films. Included here are several famous films in their entirety, and here we include The Phantom of the Opera with Lon Chaney, which is in five reels.

This business of films for a small town library like ours is really great and also unusual. Needless to say, they circulate only to adults, and for goodness sake do not let your small children handle them. Once gone, they may never return!

We are planning to go into tapes rather than records very soon. Tapes are almost indestructable, and what people do to records is a crime and a shame.

I hope Saint Peter is sitting up there calmly putting black marks by the names of patrons who borrow records and scratch them, leave them near the heater to be warped, or allow their children to play them and ruin them beyond repair.

And so to books.

Let us first mention a new book with the explanatory title of Dangerous Marine Animals by Bruce Halstead.

The book is divided into sections which discuss marine animals that bite, that sting, that are poisonous to eat, and that shock. There are many illustrations, including drawings which show the under sides of huge dangerous animals such as killer whales and sharks.

The thing is, if you were swimming in the ocean and look up to see a monster above you with these certain outlines, would you be able to rally your senses enough to remember which ugly this particular ugly might be!

Sports enthusiasts will be happy with the Don Budge book A Tennis Memoir. In it he recounts incidents from many of his famous matches, and also talks on grips and techniques for the tennis player.

We have come to expect books on ghosts and ESP from Hans Holzer, but his latest book is called The Truth About Witchcraft. A group of witches is called a coven, and in this book Holzer discusses covens from all over the world.

At long last we have a copy of Linda Goodman's Sun Signs. We ordered it some months ago and never received it, so we ordred it again, annd wonder-of-wonders, it came. It professes to tell you how to really know your family and friends by knowing their astroligical signs and taking it from there. For believers only.

* * *

Judith Crist is the critic whose brief and tart comments on movies and plays often appear on the Today show. Her new book The Private Eye, The Cowboy, and The Very Naked Lady is a collection of her articles and broadcasts and is well worth reading as is.

In the back is an excellent index by title, by actor and sometimes even by subject.

This index will enable you to look up the picture before you pay the astronimical sums which tickets to movies cost today.

Out of room we are, but one word more about the book A Walk Through Britain by John Hillaby. He really did walk 1,100 miles across England, and the book about his long quiet trek is a fascinating one. Don't miss this one. And so good-by for today.

Mountain lions are off bounty list, now tagged game animal

The mountain lion will become a game animal, pheasant tags will be replaced by a stamp and increased fees for commercial fishing will raise $800,000 in fish and game funds under laws enacted by the 1969 session of the California Legislature.

The mountain lion will be designated a big game animal and a $1 tag will be required to hunt the big cats effective July 1, 1970. The mountain lion presently is a nonprotected animal. Tags will not be required and lions may be taken any time in cases where the animals are threatening damage to property by the owner of the property or his agent.

Also effective in 1970 will be a measure replacing the present card of 10 tags for pheasant hunters with a single stamp. The cost will remain at $2. Pheasant tags still will be required this year.

Fees for various commercial fishing licenses, boat registration fees and privilege taxes will be boosted by a total of $800,000 a year to partially correct the imbalance between income from the commercial fishing industry to the Fish and Game preservation fund and costs incurred in resource protection and management.

Water polluters will face double penalties under another new law. The penalty for dumping specified substances and materials will go from a $500 and six months in jail to $1,000 and one year in jail.

Christian Scientists say man must not opt for doomsday

A message on "Peace and War" issued recently by The Christian Science Board of Directors terms peace "a stark imperative for humanity's survival," and looks toward practical efforts to use "the full resources of man's God-given intelligence" for solutions to global problems.

The five-member Board of Directors made the statement today on behalf of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, and member churches of the Christian Science denomination in 58 countries.

Portions of the statement follows:

"Peace is more than a promise. It is the creative purpose of God accepted in the mundane affairs of men. It is the structure of things as they are actually meant to be.

"Throughout history it has been assumed that war is inevitable. Conflict seems to be built into the very foundations of the physical universe. A human race trapped in a natural order at war with itself might well seem doomed to ultimate self-destruction. And today the poised instruments of total war suggest this doom as an imminent threat.

"... There is something wonderful abroad in human thought today. Whether or not men use Christian or even religious terms, they are resisting the suggestion that the self-destruction of the human race is inevitable. If humanity can put the moon beneath its feet, it can put war beneath its feet – immeasureably harder though the latter task may be.

"The promise lies in the recognized fact that peace is the condition of humanity's survival. And – the Christian might add – that it is the natural condition of man as revealed through the Prince of PEace.

"No compulsion forces men to opt for doomsday. Centuries ago a clear warning issued from a land now wracked with violence that whosoever took the sword should perish by the sword. Then, at the anguished hour of approaching crucifixion, the compelling assurance came forth, 'Be of good cheer; I have overcome the world.'

"... Until love is established as the supreme law of human action, conflicts of various sorts are likely to remain as deeply troubling elements of international life. There will be trade rivalries, ideological clashes, tribal feuds, sovereignty disputes, border tensions, colonial and imperialist ambitions. But thesy can and will be settled by means other than killing – as the overriding necessity for doing so is first accepted, then acted upon. We are not doomed helplessly to blunder into extinction.

"That was the promise of the first Christmas. It is reinforced today by new awareness, ultimatums, insights. Peace is no longer a luxury or a mere option, but a stark imperative. It is the divine fact of being, to be discovered and demonstrated by each of us individually and translated collectively into the increasing reign of law, resulting in worldwide freedom and justice."

With Bob Wood In Sacramento

Are government owned has and electric utility businesses paying their fair share of the cost of state government, local government and the school?

Some available figures show that investor owned electric companies in California serving electricity to 78% or 15 million people are currently paying an average of 14% of their operating revenue in state and local taxes, while government owned utilities serving only 22% of the people or 4.2 million Calfironians, by contrast pay no state income tax and in most instances little or no local property taxes to support the public schools.

The chairman of the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee advocates revising the existing tax burden so that they are more evenly distributed among the taxpayers and businesses.

Of course there are two sides to every coin and on the other side of the coin, the association of the government owned utilities said their method brings great benefits to the public either through lower rates or substantial contributions to the general fund of cities, or both.

This representative claims that it really makes no sense at all for the state to tax a local agency and so the fight for equal distribution of revenue and possible new tax sources goes on and in the coming legislative session I personally feel that both sides will be meeting head on in the not too distant future.

We hear so much these days about the younger generation, some good, some bad, that I can't help but feel that there are a lot of good things that we sometimes fail to hear about on the radio, TV, or our daily newspapers because so manh times only the violent disruptive events are reported to them, sometimes the good things go unreported. And it's only by chance we hear of them.

Such a thing happened to me a few days ago. I checked into one of our local hospitals for a regular periodical overhaul, nothing serious, sort of like sending the family car down to the garage for an oil change and a grease job, and while they were at it I asked them to check my points, the muffler, and anything else that might contribute to my own running condition.

I was there about 48 hours and I'll admit it was one of the nicest rests I have had since the good people in Southern Monterey County elected me to represent them on the Monterey County Board of Supervisors three years ago.

While I was there I made the acquaintance of a nurses aid, a Hartnell student by the name of Elizabeth Bermudes.

When this young lady, who is known as Liz by her friends, transferred to Hartnell she was asked if she cared to tutor children in elementary grades for pay, as such tutoring is greatly in demand.

Seh declined the job offer but instead asked if she might have the chance to create a group of colunteers who might be willing to give some of their time each week, without pay, to help "slow" students in elementary grades throughout the Salinas School District.

She was told she could try although such a plan had never succeeded before. She did succeed in doing so, and today more than 60 student volunteers are actively engaged in helping the slow student who needs a little extra personal attention. Last week the Hartnell Board realized how valuable this knowledge and experience was to those students who volunteered to act as tutors, and voted to allow three units per semester for those who participate in such a program.

The world is no doubt full of many students like Elizabeth Bermudes, but in this mixed up world of ours, it does us good to hear about these deeds and accomplishments, which in many cases gp unnoticed.

a Happy New Year.

Joanne's Jottings

SOME PEOPLE just don't appreciate all our modern conveniences. I recently overheard a father, returning to his family in the car say: "They told me the camp grounds are all full, so I guess we'll just have to stay at some air-conditioned motel, sleep in beds, and make do as best we can."

Ladies, you don't have to make do last year's wardrobe. You can still get in on the fabulous store-wide sale at Joanne Boutique, Carmel Valley's fine fashion center. You'll have to hurry though. (Opposite the post office, next to the pharmacy.) There's still a wide selection of Talbott knits, Mr. Robert dresses, Lanson rainwear, and other famous name makers. Also featured is a great variety of stylish half-size dresses. It's all at Joanne Boutique, "exclusive but not expensive." Open Sundays, 11 to 4. See you there!

Highway Patrol outlines new vehicle laws now in effect

The California Highway Patrol was directed by the 1969 legislature to study safety standards for campers designed to be mounted on motor vehicles and to conduct an in-depth study of accidents or incidents involving campers.

A report and recommendations will be given to the 1971 legislature.

Actions taken by the legislature of interest to motorists included adoption of the following laws, all of which became effective November 10:

—A slow moving vehicle emblem must be displayed on any vehicle designed to be operated at 25 miles per hour or less. (A slow-moving vehicle emblem is a flourescent orange triangle with a red reflective border, designed to be mounted on the rear of the vehicle.)

—Purpose of the emblem is to reduce the hazard of rear-end collisions with slow moving farm vehicles and construction vehicles operating on the highways. Any vehicle which is operated at less than 25 miles per hour may display the emblem, but it is required for vehicles designed for such slow speeds.

—A towed motor vehicle steered by a licensed drive is exempt from the requirement for safety chain or cable in addition to the regular drawbar, tongue or other towing device.

—Vehicles whose center of gravity has been raised or which have been otherwise modified in such a way as to make them unsafe on the highway may now be cited. Examples of modifications which could be cited as unsafe are those which limit the vision of the drive so that he cannot see pedestrians or small vehicles; in which the type of material used is inadequate for the weight of the vehicle; in which connections are poorly designed, and in which the modification affects the ease in with which the vehicle negotiates turns and curves. Vehicles raised so that the center of gravity made them unstable and difficult to control have been the cause of several serious accidents and inspired the new legislation.

—Trucks and motorcycles must comply with new lower noise limits. The total noise of such vehicles may not exceed 90 decibels in speed zones in excess of 35 miles per hour, a reduction of two decibels from existing limits. The California Highway Patrol has six noise enforcement teams in the state, operating at roadside with noise measuring equipment. Total vehicle noise, not exhaust noise alone, is measured.

The law concerning two-way left turn lanes has been rewritten to clarify its intention: the special center lanes, designated by dashed double lines, may be used to make a left turn or to complete a left turn. The law specified also that it is not unlawful to drive across the left turn lane when crossing the street from one drive way to another.

AAA tips for cold weather driving

Snowstorms will soon be dumping that white powder across the Sierra Nevada and skiers will be driving to the ski slopes for some fun. Snowstorms may cause traffic tie-ups, skids, and unusual driving conditions, says the California State Automobile Association.

Here are some tips for the motorist on how to prepare for winter driving:

1. The vehicle should have antifreeze in proper concentration.
2. The engine should be given a thorough tune-up.
3. Chains should be carried in the car and tires must be in good condition.
4. Defrosting equipment should be in good working condition and a windshield scraper should be carried.
5. Check windshield wipers and window cleaning solvent.
6. Check exhaust system, especially the muffler. Carbon monoxide is a greater hazard in winter.

Now that you're underway, remember these driving musts in winter weather:

1. Reduce speed, but do not tie-up traffic by creeping up a hill.
2. Keep all windows clean, inside and out.
3. Freely use lights – you may not see better but the other driver will see you sooner.
4. Stay a good stopping distance behind the vehicle ahead.
5. Be alert for all pedestrians.
6. Anticipate and be prepared for the unusual, such as slow-moving equipment or an accumulation of stalled vehicles.

Driver course

A series of four driver improvement classes will be held at the Carmel Foundation, 8th and Lincoln streets.

The dates are Jan. 12, 16, 19 and 23 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

This course has been prepared by the National Safety Council and is sponsored by the National Retired Teachers Association and the American Association of Retired Persons.

Any member of these Associations pays a fee of $1 for the four meetings. Anyone 55 years of age or over is welcome, but non-members pay a fee of $4 for the four sessions.

The series includes eight color films on defensive driving as well as information from the California Vehicle Code; There are question and answer periods.

Additional information is available by calling the instructors, Mr. and Mrs. A. Nicholson, 659-2172.

Veterans Ask

Q. What is the Modified Life Plan available to veteran holders of National Service Life Insurance policies?

A. This is a plan of insurance providing a lifetime level premium lower than other permanent plans. It avoids the periodic premium increases of term insurance. The face amount is reduced to one-half at age 65, when insurance needs usually decline. You must apply for this plan before you reach the insurance age of 61 years.

Q. I am in service and hold reinstatement rights to my pre-service job. Since going into the military, I have learned another trade and I do not intend to return to my former job. Should I report to my old boss about my post-service job plans?

A. By all means do so; you will be doing your former employer a favor. For example, he may be purposely witholding advancing your replacement in the belief that you will eventually return to your old job.

Q. May a veteran receive Social Security retirement credit for military service during World War II?

A. Generally, yes. A veteran may receive $160 wage credit for each month of World War II duty if he was discharged under other than dishonorable conditions and had at least 90 days of active service. But if a veteran's World War II time is counted for military or Civil Service retirement, he does not receive Social Security wage credit for the time, since the Government does not give a veteran double credit.

Q. I am the daughter of a veteran who died of a service-connected disability. I have completed high school and would like to apply for the educational assistance benefit. I also need help in deciding my educational or vocational goal. I understand the VA provides counseling. What will this cost me?

A. Help is provided by a professional counselor in deciding upon a suitable goal without cost to you. For assistance contact your nearest VA Regional Office.

Free University seeks leaders

The Monterey Peninsula Free University, now organizing its spring program, is seeking persons to "lead" courses.

Prospective "leaders" are asked to write "The Free U" care of Monterey Peninsula College, 980 Fremont, Monterey, describing briefly the course (s) they feel competent to lead and mentioning times and places for meetings. If no locale can be suggested, Free U personnel will attempt to find one.

As further explanation, a bulletin issued this week states: "Anyone can teach any course in The Free University if he feels a strong motivation to do so. No credentials are necessary. What is necessary, though, is a desire to communicate what you know to others in an informal gathering of people. The success of your group is entirely up to you and those who enroll in it. Classroom space at MPC is possible, but we strongly recommend that you meet in private homes or other informal places."

Persons wishing to reach The Free U by telephone may call 375-9821, Ext. 323. "But" - the bulletin contines - "be patient with us if no one answers. All our help is free."

The Free U, organized last September by MPC English instructor Leonard Epstein, began its first "semester" with some 900 participants.

What is Christian Science?

It is a religion based on the words and works of Christ Jesus. It has helped many like you to prove in a measure the meaning of Christ Jesus' promise: "He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also." It shows the scientific basis of Christianity and how to avail yourself of the laws of God in everyday life. Agonizing Re-Appraisal?
While you are putting away the Christmas tree ornaments, are yor thoughts running along the lines that your house was just too small for all your family, or it was too big and you had too many guests in it this holiday, or you wish it were closer to town (so your guests could walk), or farther away so you wouldn't have so many visitors? Interestingly enough, what you consider a problem might be somebody else's solution. Maybe we could help you trade houses, or sell what you have and help you find a new one, or just help you analyze your changed housing needs. Anyhow, we're available!

Houle Consort features many artists familiar to Carmel

The Monterey Peninsula Chamber Music Society will present the Houle Consort at Sunset Auditorium on Jan. 9 beginning at 8:30 p.m.

The Houle Consort is a group of California musicians especially interested in the performance of early music.

Widely acclaimed by critics and audiences on the West Coast for its combination of musical excitement and historical authenticity, the ensemble has performed on television as well as many concerts in universities and concert halls in the West.

At least two of the musicians are familiar to local audiences. Marie Gibson, soprano, is well known to Carmel audiences who have heard her performances at the Bach Festival, where she has always been a featured artist.

Although she was in constant demand for vocal concerts in the Los Angeles area, where she lived for many years, Northern California finally claimed her and she is now a faculty member in the Music Department of Stanford University.

Margaret Fabrizio and her harpsichord are also familiar to local audiences, as she, too, has appeared as soloist in the Carmel Bach Festival as well as the Stanford Music Festival and the festivals at Cabrillo College. She has recently returned from Europe and a most successful concert tour.

Anthony Doheny, whose instruments are violin and bass viola da gamaba, is a former member of the Sydney, Australia Symphony Orchestra, and is presently teaching at the Menuhin School of Music in Menlo Park.

George Houle himself specializes in the performance of early music on the oboe and most of the Baroque and Renaissance reed instruments, and also the recorder, crumhorn, and cornetto in addition to shawms and oboe. He is presently Associate Professor of Music at Stanford.

This unusual group will perform in solo as well as ensemble combinations, and the stress will be placed on the composer and the music itself rather than on the performing artists. The program will include selected works of Bach, Telemann, Scarlatti, Handel, and Locatelli, and the program will be announced as it is played. Another innovation for this particular concert will be the novel arrangement of the Sunset Auditorium to keep the close rapport of audience and performer which is so much a part of the pleasure of this type of music.

Angie Machado, president of the Society, extends a cordial invitation to non-members to attend this concert as additional seats will be available.

Single admissions to non-members will be available at the ticket window.

A Good Start

January, the month of that two-faced god Janus who could look forward and backward at the same time, has appropriately been chosen as the month for the March of Dimes and for the United Cerebral Palsy drive.

Looking backward we can see the great, humane gains that have been made by these organizations in helping those who suffer disabling and dreadful maladies. The gains in health and its treasure of well-being are of course the major ones. But the rehabilitation of human beings has its economic side, too, for the costs of illness and disability are enormous.

For reasons of the heart and of the mind, it is a good time to look forward, too. Forward to a new and greater gains in the health of our fellow men through charities such as these.

Chief Belvail retires after 28 years

A life of service to Carmel

By Joanne Nix

Last month James R. Belvail, Carmel's fire chief for the past five years announced his retirement.

In 1941, Belvail, a Carmel resident since 1921, joined the Carmel Fire Department. Seven years later he was elected trustee and soon after he was assigned to the examination committee for new members.

As his career continued he was appointed to other committee posts and in 1957 he was chosen battalion chief.

After two more years of service he became assistant chief and in March 1965 he was appointed acting chief of the department.

Chief Belvail, his wife, Margaret, and five children, James, Rita, Pat, Janie, and Christy have made Carmel their home for forty-nine years and Belvail has served the Carmel Fire Department for 28 of those years.

In appreciation for his time and service to the community, the friends of Chief Belvail will hold a retirement dinner for him at the Holiday Inn in Carmel tomorrow night, Jan. 9.

READY FOR ACTION – In his final act as fire chief, James Belvail slides behind the whell of the firetruck ready for a drive. Behind him is a tank of air and mask used by firemen when entering burning houses. Chief Belvail's final year on the job was a busy one. The department answered 378 fire calls and 431 requests for ambulance service during 1969.

FINAL TOUR OF DUTY – Chief Belvail prepares to "turn out" his cout and helmet for a final inspection and trial run in the fire truck. The term "turn out" refers to the suiting up of firemen when the alarm is sounded. Day or night they are prepared to don the turn out helmet and coat and swing into action.

JAMES R. BELVAIL, FIRE CHIEF – Chief Belvail takes a last look at the Carmel fire house as he prepares for a final tour in the truck. In his 28 years with the department his duties have included a trustee appointment, election to asssistant sergeant at arms, treasurer, and service on the by-laws and emergency benefit fund committees.

OCS offers advantages over draft in pay, priveleges

For 10 months additional active duty, the U.S. Army Officer Candidate School graduate earns almost $12,000 more than the soldier who serves two years on active duty as a result of being drafted according to information released by the Army Recruting Service.

The actual additional earing is $11,960.52, based on the premise that the OCS graduate will reach the grade of 1st Lt. as compared to the average grade of Sp4 class which the draftee will attain after his service.

The service commitment for both the OCS graduate and the draftee is two years, however the former spends 10 months additional time undergoing basic, advanced and OCS training prior to commissioning.

During his two years and 10 months service, he will earn $16,203.12. During the two years the drafted soldier serves, he will earn $4,242.60, hence the almost $12,000 difference for an additional 10-month period.

For most men who qualify, this is enough incentive to apply for the OCS program. The financial benefits are, however, a point worth considering when a young man has a decision to make condering how to fulfill his military obligation.

Those interested in the Officer Candidate School program are invited to contact Sergeant Jose Garcia today at 431 Webster St., Monterey for details including those that apply to the financial benefits of service as an OCS graduate.

'Pallid prosperity in '70' says BofA

The coming year will be one of "pallid prosperity" for California, according to Bank of America.

"Economic activity in California will continue to expand in 1970, although the rate of increase will be less than in the Sixties," bank economists said today.

They also predicted further reductions in real growth and some lessening in inflationary pressures.

Terming the growth rate of civilian employment as a key measure of economic performance, the bank foresees a 2 per cent increase in 1970, or 175,000 new jobs in the state.

The bank's special report, "Focus on 1970: California", predicts that personal income will rise about 7.5 per cent in 1970, compared to 9 per cent for 1969.

JAMES R. BELVAIL, CIVILIAN – James Belvail dons his hunting hat and prepares to enjoy a life of farming, ranching and hunting on his ranch near Redding. Belvail retired this month from the Carmel fire department after 28 years of service. He joined the department in 1941 and was appointed acting chief in March of 1965. Chief Belvail is now living on his ranch where he hopes to eventually raising cattle. Farming is his first love but he enjoys working as an electrician also.
